Care Curiosity Determination

Dear Parents/Carers,

This week, as part of Anti Bullying Week, the children have engaged in a number of different activities centred around the theme of 'Break the Silence' – as seen on the Anti Bullying Alliance website:

Anti-Bullying Week 2026: Break the Silence

One activity that stood out was the celebration of odd socks. Ok not quite that but more a celebration of how we are all different and how we are all unique. Here is a very arty photo taken from our nurture provision showing some of those socks in action! The website itself is full of helpful resources, links and advice so take a look if you ever feel the need to.

In other news, it was recently raised by Governors the sharp decrease in the following question from last summer's children's questionnaire:

1. I sleep well most of the time and have a good routine before I go to bed	83.3%	78.5%

Anecdotally, in school, we are seeing an increase in the number of children coming to school tired, and, consequently, not ready to learn. Whilst there could be a number of reasons for this, having spoken to a few children it would seem that 'screentime' is one of those reasons (particularly an increase in this before going to sleep). Once we have a bit more information I will come back to you on this as I do think it is an issue that is worth exploring.

Have a lovely weekend,

Mr I. Johnson
